

Call for Proposals

AI and the Future of Education: Disruptive Teaching and Learning Models

Virtual Conference
August 1st–2nd, 2024
US Eastern Time

Virtual, free, and open to the public

More information at bit.ly/3T19q08

The Policy Studies Organization, and American Public University System invite you to submit a proposal for the upcoming AI and the Future of Education: Disruptive Teaching and Learning Models, jointly presented by the Journal of Online Learning, Research, and Practice (JOLRAP) and the International Journal of Open Education Resources (IJOER). This event aims to provide professors, academic leaders, researchers, librarians, curriculum designers, journal editors, and graduate students with opportunities to share knowledge and contribute unique perspectives. This conference is seeking presentations that involve the audience and foster conversations that will help redefine educational frameworks related to teaching, assessment, leadership, curriculum, and research.

CONFERENCE STRANDS:

- Leveraging AI
- Ethics and AI
- Accessibility and AI

TO SUBMIT A PROPOSAL:

Send your proposal to JOLRAP-IJOERConference@ipsonet.org. Please include a title and approximately 1–2 pages of double-spaced overview into your proposal. Follow current APA style. Proposals will be peer-reviewed. Indicate which (1) strand and; (2) presentation format is preferred. Describe interactive elements that will be included in your presentation. Each session/format will include one person to monitor technical logistics and one person who will moderate.

The deadline for submissions is May 1st, 2024. Proposals will be peer-reviewed.

For more information please visit the conference website at bit.ly/3T19q08

American Public
University System

