

Paula J. Sarmiento

Short Biography

Paula J. Sarmiento is an environmental economist working on applied microeconomic and environmental policy research related to climate solutions. She uses satellite and non-traditional data in many of my projects. My research is guided by the question: When, how and where climate action supports nature and people?